

Designing Healthcare: Stimulating Interdisciplinarity and Co-Design for Quality Healthcare

Thursday 8 - Friday 9 April 2021

There is widespread recognition and support for collaborative working across disciplinary boundaries to solve real world problems, with users' needs firmly embedded in this process. Focusing on design, this conference will explore interdisciplinary working between science and the arts to co-produce research.

PROGRAMME

Keynote presentations by
Karen Cook and Claire Hastie (Long Covid Support)
Professor Rick Iedema (King's College London)
Professor Sue Walker (University of Reading)
Dr Louise Younie (Queen Mary, University of London)

There will be live and recorded oral research presentations, digital research posters discussion and interactive arts activities, performances and screenings.
