

DIVERSE PARTICIPATION & REPRESENTATION IN THE HERITAGE SECTOR

a Democratising Heritage workshop co-hosted by the University of Reading and Historic England

4 July 2018, 10am-4.30pm

Park House, University of Reading

Focus:

- Developing dynamic relationships between heritage and users
- Co-producing to diversify the framing of heritage and place
- Co-curation with diverse volunteers

Speakers include:

- Linda Monckton, Head of Communities Research, Historic England
- Anna Lisa Runarsdottir, Head of Research & Collections, National Museum of Iceland
- Kirsty Neate, Head of Professional Services, Manx National Heritage
- Sally Lloyd-Evans, Co-Lead, Whitley Big Local project, University of Reading
- Rosie Sherrington, Senior Social Inclusion and Diversity Advisor, Historic England
- Kate Clark, Deputy Director of Heritage Policy & Engagement, Llywodraeth Cymru/Welsh Government to be confirmed

Click here to book your free place:

<http://bit.ly/2MuXlvB>

Postgraduates can apply for travel bursaries at this link.

For further information, contact Lisa Purse and Avril Maddrell. Getting here: <http://bit.ly/2LUrval>

Supported at University of Reading by:
Heritage & Creativity Research Theme
Heritage & Creativity Institute for Collections
Participation Lab
Human Geography Research Cluster

